

Wells Fargo Teacher on the Trail™ Teacher on the Trail: Terrie Hanke
Terrie's Update: Trailing Terrie
By Diane Johnson
Monday, March 06, 2006

Saturday, March 5, Terrie volunteered at the start of 2006 as one of the dog handlers.

The dogs were very anxious and excited to get on the trail!

Many people lined the fence to watch the mushers and their team come to the starting line. Terrie and many other dog handlers assisted the teams as they moved from the dog truck parking lot to the staging area.

Later that afternoon, she flew with the Iditarod Air Force to the checkpoint: Skwentna. I saw her off on her flight.

Terrie took time to have her picture taken with a Flat Stanley, belonging to Autumn from Hendricks, Minnesota.

Terrie's pilot was Bruce Moroney of the Iditarod Air Force. What are those red "things" under the wheels of the plane? Find out if you don't know!

Terrie spent the night in Skwentna and is headed this morning to Finger Lake. There is no Internet connection in Skwentna or in Finger Lake. Once she gets further down the trail, she will be posting her messages to you!

Happy Trails Trailing Terrie!

Diane